NOTIFICATION.

PRINCE OF WALES' ROYAL INDIAN MILITARY COLLEGE, DEHRA DUN.

No. 2.—(1) In connexion with the admission of candidates to the Prince of Wales' Royal Indian Military College, Dehra Dun, the following information is published for the use of intending candidates:—

The College provides a public school education on English lines for Indian and Anglo-Indian youths who desire subsequently to enter a cadet college with a view to obtaining commissions in the Indian Land Forces, the Indian Air Force or the Royal Indian Navy, and making use of those services their profession in life. The course of study at the College will, however, be such that, should a boy fail in the competitive examination for admission to a cadet college or for entry in the Royal Indian Navy, he will be in as favourable a position for entry to a university as if he had been educated at an ordinary school.

(2) Candidates will be selected from unmarried Indian and Anglo-Indian boys of—

(a) Provinces of British India.

(b) Indian States.

Nominations will be made by His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief on the recommendation of the Local Government or Administration or the Political Officer, as the case may be.

(3) Candidates must have attained the age of eleven years and be under twelve years on the 20th January 1937.

(4) Candidates should attach to their applications a medical certificate from the Officer Commanding a British or Indian Station Hospital or a Civil Surgeon to the effect that they are physically fit in all respects in accordance with Appendix A to this notification.

(5) The fees will be Rs. 1,500 for each school year and are liable to enhancement hereafter, if circumstances require. These fees will include tuition, passage, school servants and medical attendance of the ordinary kind, and, as initial provision, one suit of the uniform to be worn by students when at the College. Charges on account of washing of cadets' clothing and mending their clothing, boots and shoes, as well as the cost of books and stationery (which will be supplied by the College) will be met by the parents or guardians of the cadets.

In addition to the fees referred to above, the parent or guardian of a cadet will be required to deposit with the College authorities, on his entering the College, the sum of Rs. 50 which will be returned when the cadet finally leaves the College provided that all dues have been paid.

In the event of it becoming necessary for cadets to be admitted into a civil hospital, all charges incurred will be borne by the parents or guardians of the cadets.

A full term's notice is required to be given of intention to withdraw a cadet from the College. In the event of such notice not being given, the parent or guardian will be required to pay one full term's fees in lieu, unless it is considered that the circumstances in which the cadet was withdrawn are such as to call for special consideration.

NOTE.—In the past, nominations of free boys have been made, in certain deserving cases, to the sons of Indian soldiers.

Such nominations will be also attached until further orders, and full fees will be levied in respect of cadets who are the sons of Indian soldiers and who are admitted to the College in the future.

(6) Entry to the College will not be open to candidates who are already married.

of accepted candidates only, their names, dates of birth, addresses and the centres where they are to be examined. This statement should be supported by the accepted candidates' registration forms duly signed by the Accountant General in token of acceptance which should be carefully preserved by the Principal.

10. Simultaneously, each candidate should be informed whether or not his application has been accepted.

11. The fees of rejected candidates should be returned to them by postal money order at their cost, and those of accepted candidates should be remitted in consolidated sums to the Accountant General, Bengal, by means of Remittance Transfer Receipts, together with a covering letter containing the names of the candidates.

At each examination is complete in itself, a candidate who has failed in an examination, and presents himself for an examination on a subsequent occasion, must undergo the full examination and furnish a fresh fee with fresh certificates and registration form. 16. It must be distinctly understood that the passing of the examination does not give any claim to appointment as a Divisional Accountant, and that applications for appointment should not be addressed to the Principal. The passing of the examination is a necessary qualification, but the establishment of Divisional Accountants is mainly recruited by selection from amongst qualified clerks already employed on accounts duties in the divisional and subdivisional offices of the Public Works Department or in Civil Audit offices. A small number of graduates of Indian Universities and other persons of superior and special qualifications who may have passed this public examination, may, however, be appointed direct by the Accountant General, vide paragraph 4 of Appendix 2 to the Public Works Account Code issued by the Auditor-General in India.

17. These rules may at any time be amended or revised by the Auditor General, who reserves to himself the power to grant exemptions from this public examination in very special cases. No general revision of the rules affecting the subjects of the examination or the necessary qualifications of candidates will be enforced until three years have elapsed since the date of such revision.

NOTE 1.—Applications for these rules should be made to the Accountant General of the Presidency or Province in which the candidate lives.

NOTE 2.—The question papers of previous years may be obtained from the officer-in-charge of the Bengal Government Book Depot, Alipore, Calcutta, on prepayment of the cost. For rules, application should be made to him.

NOTE 3.—All communications to the Bengal Engineering College should be addressed to the Principal, Bengal Engineering College, Botanic Garden, P. O., Howrah.

NOTE 4.—All applications in connection with examinations should be addressed to the Accountant-General concerned and not to the Principal, Bengal Engineering College.

NOTE 5.—The Principal, Bengal Engineering College, cannot correspond with candidates who are dissatisfied with the marks awarded to them. Letters received by him on this subject will not be replied to.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY DEPARTMENT.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill further to amend the Indian Companies Act, 1913, for certain purposes, was presented to the Legislative Assembly on the 21st August, 1936:—

1. Parts I—XV
2. Report on the Amendment of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, by M. R. C. Sen.
3. Minutes of the Proceedings of the Company Law Amendment Committee.
4. Statement showing the position regarding amendments of the Indian Companies Act, 1913

We, the undersigned, members of the Select Committee to which the Bill further to amend the Indian Companies Act, 1913, for certain purposes was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us annexed thereto.

The insertion of several new clauses in the Bill has necessitated re-numbering of the clauses. References in our Report are to the numbers of the clauses and sections as they appeared in the Bill as introduced. The revised number of the clause appears in the margin of the Report in each case where a change has occurred

The more important of the alterations we have made in the Bill are set out in the notes on individual clauses that here follow.

Clause 2, sub-clause (c)—Definition of 'manager' and managing agent'—The existence of many special provisions applying to managing agents renders it advisable that the terms should be separately defined. We have evolved definitions intended to differentiate managing agents from managers, instead of merely including the former in the definition of the latter.

Sub-clause (b)—We consider it unnecessary to provide for the inclusion among the members of a private company of persons who have left the employment of the company, and consider that such a provision might enable the number of members to be undesirably enlarged. The other amendment takes into consideration the fact that some private companies have no share capital.

In the proposed sub-section (2) of section 2 containing the definition of subsidiary company we have made an alteration designed to include in the definition of subsidiary company a company which is a sub-subsidiary company, and we have excluded, for the purposes of computing the interest of the holding company in a subsidiary, shares held only as security for a loan granted by a company whose ordinary business includes the lending of money.

Clause 3—A drafting error has been corrected.

Clause 4.—The words inserted by us merely provide for what is generally done in practice. A similar provision has been inserted in section 10 of the Act by new clause 7A.

Clause 5—We consider it undesirable to leave to the registrar the function assigned to him in clause (a) of sub-section (3) of section 11. Clause (c) has been omitted because the provisions contained in section 47 of the Co-operative Societies Act, 1912, already secure the object aimed at by this clause.

Clause 7.—We have altered the wording so as to obviate the necessity of companies altering their articles to contain the regulations now made compulsory. We have also included regulation 85 among the compulsory articles. We have exempted private companies except the special class consisting of subsidiaries of public companies from the necessity of adapting regulation 78.

Clause 7A.—See note on clause 4.

Clause 8A.—We have inserted a time limit in section 25 for compliance with a request made under that section.

Clause 9.—The insertions make the section applicable also to articles and enable sections 50 (3) and (4) and 71 (2) and (3) to be almost entirely repealed. The insertion of the words "knowingly" and "wilfully" has been made here and elsewhere to ensure that an unintentional default is not to be penalised.

Clause 12.—The principal changes made extend the time for the preparation and submission of the first return required under the section, provide for the inclusion of some additional items in the summary, and incorporate the provisions of section 111 of the English Act relating to private companies.

Clause 13.—We have confined the provision relating to notice to a transferee to those cases where the shares transferred are shares not fully paid up, and have shortened the time within which objection can be taken. We have made a supplementary provision as to service of notice. The new sub-section (6) of section 54 makes it clear that there is no intention in anything contained in the section to affect the right of a company to refuse to register a transfer of shares, where that right exists by virtue of the articles. Other changes are minor drafting corrections.

Clause 14.—We have omitted this provision as unnecessary.

Clause 15.—The first change inserts an amendment which was inadvertently omitted consequential on the new section 31A. We have extended the time allowed for compliance with a request for a copy of the register, and have added in sub-section (5) of section 33 a provision enabling the Court to enforce compliance with such a request where there is undue delay.

Clause 15A.—We have extended the time during which the register of members may be closed, to make more generous allowance for those cases in which it is closed at two separate times during the year.

Clause 16.—"Completion" has been substituted for "making" to provide for the intermediate period which according to the practice in certain Courts elapses before the order made is really available to the company.

Clause 18.—We have brought the provision of the law into conformity with the English Act which does not require a special resolution but only the authority of the company in general meeting for a change in the memorandum. We have omitted sub-sections (4) and (5) of section 50 in view of the new section 23A. We have also provided that notice shall be given at an early date to the registrar of any change in the memorandum relating to the subdivision or cancellation of shares.

Clause 18A.—A consequential amendment omitted in the Bill has now been inserted.

Clause 19.—We have omitted clauses (b) and (c) of the proviso to sub-section (2) of section 54 because we think these provisions might lend themselves to abuses. The omission of sub-section (3) is consequential on this decision.

Clause 20A.—The second sub-clause substitutes the date of the presentation of the petition for the Court's order confirming the reduction of shares as the date after which the words indicating the reduction are to be appended to the name of the company. The first merely makes an amendment omitted inadvertently in the Bill, necessary since confirmation of special resolutions has been abolished.

Clause 21, section 56A.—We have altered the periods specified in the first and second sub-sections, and in the fifth we have inserted the more reasonable provision that the date of service on the company of the order made should be the date from which time should run against the company.

Clause 21A.—The words and sub-section omitted are no longer necessary in view of new section 23A.

Clause 23.—We think eighteen months from incorporation is a reasonable limit to fix for the holding of the first annual meeting.

Clause 24, section 77.—We have substituted more extended periods of time in the first two sub-sections. We have supplemented in certain respects the information required to be given in the statutory report.

Clause 25.—The change made provides for an amendment of a consequential nature which was inadvertently omitted in the Bill.

Clause 26.—We have provided specifically that agenda must accompany the notice of a general meeting, and have amplified the provisions relating to demand for a poll. We have added a provision to deal with a practice said to be not uncommon of denying to shareholders duly brought on the register the full exercise of their rights as shareholders until after a specified period. We have increased the quorum for a general meeting of a public company, where other provision is not made in the article, to five.

Clause 27.—The addition made carries out a small consequential amendment in the Act necessitated by the changes made by the Bill.

Clause 28.—The first change inserts a consequential change in the Act necessitated by the abolition of confirmation of extraordinary resolutions. The word "principal" has been omitted before "officer" as unnecessary and not in accord with the phraseology of the Act.

Clause 32, section 83.—In new sub-section (4) we have allowed a period of seven days from the meeting for the preparation of the minutes, as we understand this task is sometimes entrusted to a director or others and is not always completed without some delay. The other changes made are mere drafting improvements.

Clause 36.—The change made gives effect to our decision that private companies which are subsidiaries of public companies should not enjoy the exemption accorded to private companies by certain provisions of the Act, e.g., the section 83A, and sections 86D, 87C, 87D, 91B (4), 91D, and sub-sections 141(7) and 144(3).

Clause 37.—We have altered proposed sub-section (3) of section 89B to secure that while the number of directors who can be appointed by the managing agent is limited to one-third of the whole number, a minimum of one-third must be appointed by the members of the company in general meeting. This provision is to be read in conjunction with clause 7 of the Bill which by making the provisions of article 78 of Table A applicable to all companies secures that all first directors of a company must retire at the first ordinary meeting of the company.

Clause 38.—The change made brings the provisions of section 84(1) into accord with section 140(1) of the English Act.

Clause 39.—See note on section 86B under clause 35.

Clause 41.—Sub-section (1) of section 86A has been altered so as to apply only to directors, managing agents or managers and the word "bankrupt" has been replaced by the expression in use in this country. The words excluded from sub-section (3) have no ascertainable meaning in the Act.

Section 86B.—The proviso makes it clear that temporary appointments of alternate or substitute directors do not constitute an assignment of office, when made with the approval of the board of directors.

Section 86D has been revised to forbid loans of any kind to a director, and provision has been made for punishment of a breach of the section. The section has been made inapplicable to certain classes of private companies and to banking companies.

In section 86E the words "legal or technical adviser" have been substituted for "solicitor" and a proviso has been added to save from the operation of the section offices of profit held by directors elected or appointed before the amending legislation comes into force.

Section 86F forbidding the appointment of a director as trustee for debenture-holders was omitted as unnecessary.

Section 86G was considered in the light of the provisions contained in clause 56 (amendment of section 139) and clause 7 (incorporating article 107 of Table A). We consider retention of this section unnecessary in view of the provisions inserted by clause 56 in which we have now included a reference to directors nominated by company to another company.

Section 86H (now 86F).—We have exempted from the operation of the section directors appointed prior to the commencement of the Amending Act.

Section 86I (now 86G).—We have inserted here as clause (a) the provisions contained in sub-section (2) of section 85 and have omitted that sub-section. In clause (f) we have provided that absence for three consecutive months or from three consecutive meetings if the period covered by the meetings extends to three months should disqualify a director, and we have added as an additional disqualification the taking of a loan from the company. The minor changes are drafting improvements.

Clause 35.—We have amplified the first sub-section of section 87 by including a reference to managers and managing agents, and providing for the case of firms. We have omitted sub-section (b) as unnecessary. The remaining changes made are minor corrections or self-explanatory. 44

Clause 36.—We have redrafted sub-section (d) of new section 87A so as to avoid a possible implication that a managing agent whose appointment would otherwise expire earlier might be entitled under the sub-section to continue in office for 20 years after the commencement of the Amending Act, and at the same time to show that re-appointment is possible. The proviso has been redrafted to refer specifically to loans made to the company, and to remuneration due from the company to the managing agent at the time of the termination of the managing agency, and to secure to the managing agent a lien on the assets of the company to provide for any claims made on him for liabilities undertaken by him on behalf of the company. We have made it clear that the termination of a managing agency contract under this section does not affect any right the managing agent may have to be compensated for the premature termination of his functions. 45

Section 87B.—We have altered clause (a) to provide that it shall be for conviction of a non-bailable offence committed in relation to the company that a managing agent may be removed and have dealt with those cases in which the managing agent is a firm or company. We have provided in clause (b) that an ordinary resolution, instead of an extraordinary resolution as should be sufficient for the approval of a transfer of office by a managing agent. In clause (c) we have provided that if the negligence or misconduct of the managing agent itself contributes to the winding up the managing agent shall be debarred from recovering compensation for the consequent termination of his contract. We have made it clear that clause (e) does not apply to appointments, etc., made before the Amending Act comes into force, and have also saved from its operation those preliminary appointments announced in a prospectus, which it would be impracticable to hold in abeyance until the first general meeting.

Section 87C.—We have saved from the operation of the first part of sub-section (1), those cases where a company appoints its first managing agents and sets forth the terms of remuneration in the prospectus. In order to effect this, the sub-section has been divided into two sub-sections, the second containing the conditional prohibition of remuneration additional to or in any other form than that provided for by sub-section (1). In sub-section (3), formerly sub-section (2), we have included depreciation among the matters for which allowance is to be made in calculating net profits, and have supplemented these matters by the addition of certain other items. We have also excluded private companies and institutional companies from the purview of the section.

Section 87D.—We have amended this section on the lines followed in our treatment of section 86D so as to prohibit loans absolutely, and have here also inserted a penal provision. The amendment made in sub-section (2) explains itself. We have excluded private companies except those of one class from the operation of the section.

Section 87E.—The alteration made in sub-section (1) provides for exempting renewals of old loans or guarantees whose contingency may be essential to the survival of the company from the purview of the sub-section. A drafting amendment is made in the proviso. Sub-section (2) has been expanded to include a civil liability in addition to the penalty, which has been reduced in amount, and to apply the penalty directly to the director or officer at fault.

Section 87F.—The companies known as investment companies have been excluded from the operations of the section and the rather novel provision requiring approval by a special majority of the directors has been revised.

Section 300.—The changes made are intended to clarify the meaning, without altering the effect of the section

Section 311.—We have recast this section. We feel that the reference to competitive business might render the provisions of the section too comprehensive, and we are disposed to take a cautious attitude in view of the fact that the section represents an entirely new departure.

43 Clause 314.—The existing section 90 provides for empowering a person to execute deeds on behalf of a company in any place outside British India. We have made the section apply also to British India itself

44 Clause 318.—Sub-clause (a) makes a verbal correction.

Sub-clause (b).—We consider that some provision should be made to ensure that shareholders may obtain information about contracts in which directors of the company are interested. We have provided that a register shall be maintained to supply this information

45 Clause 330.—This inserts in section 91B a salutary provision the equity of which has been recognized by the Courts.

46 Clause 36.—The first change made in the clause inserts in section 91C a reference to managing agents since these are not now included in the term manager. We have also slightly enlarged the time allowed for sending abstracts of the contracts concerned to members of the company.

47 Clause 37.—We have deleted the reference to auditors. We consider it unnecessary that they should receive copies of these contracts (contracts with undisclosed principals), which in some cases may be numerous

48 Clause 38, section 73.—The change in sub-clause (a) (i) supplies a small omission in the Bill, first in clause (a) (ii) supplies the necessary reference to managing agents A new sub-clause (c) (iii) requires the prospectus to contain information about the under-writing of shares.

The chief change made in sub-clause (c) (iii) requires a balance-sheet to be prepared for a period of twelve months in respect of a business purchased or proposed to be purchased by the company, and to be appended to the prospectus.

" We have inserted an amendment of clause (b) of sub-section (7) of section 73 of the Act to apply the provision regarding disclosure of commission to discount also.

The change in sub-clause (c) (ia) is intended to secure fuller information in respect of property purchased or to be purchased, for instance, as to the existence of charges on such property The change in sub-clause (c) (ii) is self-explanatory.

In sub-clause (b) the first two changes made in proposed sub-section (1A) also aim at securing disclosure of fuller information, e.g., as to subsidiary companies, and the sources from which the purchased company has found the money for its recent dividends. Accountants are more clearly defined by the third change The insertion of new sub-section (1B) is for the purpose of avoiding by an explanation any difficulties in interpreting the word " profits " Sub-clause (c) makes a provision supplementary to section 154 (1) of the Act.

49 Clause 39.—A small inaccuracy has been corrected.

50 Clause 39A.—This amendment is consequential on the alteration made in the Second Schedule.

51 Clause 40.—A small omission has been supplied

52 Clause 41.—We have redrafted the section with the object of simplifying it by transferring the substance of the four clauses (a) to (d) to a new sub-section, and have omitted the words providing an an alternative for the minimum subscription the subscription of 33⅓ per cent of the offered share capital. We have omitted sub-section (2) of the section as drafted, considering that its provisions are superfluous.

Clause 44, section 185B.—In proviso (a) to sub-section (1) we have added a third source from which funds for redemption of redeemable preference shares may be drawn. In sub-section (2) the change made supplies an omission which we have also rectified by the first change made in clause 38.

Clause 47.—The amendment is a small drafting correction.

Clause 48.—The references to manager and liquidator are inapt and have been removed. We have inserted managing agents among the persons liable in case of default.

Clause 50.—We consider it inappropriate that the registrar should have authority to determine whether the cause shown is satisfactory or not, or to decide any matter in dispute under the section. We have therefore provided that he should merely note the fact of dispute and inform the parties that he has done so.

Clause 51.—The amendment merely corrects a small inaccuracy of language.

Clause 59, section 193.—We consider it sufficient that inspection should be possible at any time during office hours, and have amended sub-section (2) accordingly. Having regard to Indian practice the directors of a company should, we think, be made liable to a penalty under this section only in those cases where the company is not run by a managing agent. We have accordingly provided that the managing agent, where there is one, shall be responsible for securing compliance with this section.

Clause 61, section 197.—We have adopted the wording of section 125 of the English Act in preference to the opening words of sub-section (2) of this section as drafted. In sub-clauses (b) and (c) (ii) we have rectified a drafting oversight. We consider that the section need not apply to a private company and have secured this effect by the omission of sub-clause (c) (i) of the section as drafted.

Clause 65.—No alterations.

Clause 66.—See notes on clause 7 and on section 86C in clause 33. We are of opinion that it is unnecessary that the profit and loss account should disclose the remuneration of a manager who is not a managing agent, but we think that the shareholders should have power by passing a special resolution to require this information to be included in the profit and loss account.

Clause 67.—We consider that the balance sheet, and profit and loss account of subsidiary companies and the auditor's report should be circulated along with the accounts of the holding company. We also consider that members of the holding company should be empowered to inspect the accounts of subsidiary companies, and should have rights in respect of them to demand investigation. We have made provision to this effect in this clause. We also consider that when the holding company is a public company subsidiary companies even if private companies, should not enjoy exemptions from the provisions of sections 83A, 86D, 86C, 87P, 91B, 91D, 144 (f) and 144 (i) (iii). We have provided accordingly by amendments dealing with these provisions.

Clause 68.—The change made corrects an error in the drafting by which failure to issue a balance sheet was inadvertently left unprovided for.

Clause 68A.—A consequential amendment overlooked in the draft Bill is made by this new clause.

Clause 69.—The words added remove a possible ambiguity.

Clause 70.—We have amended the provisions to be inserted in section 137, by providing that action by the registrar shall be taken only after the company has been given an opportunity of explanation, and as a check on frivolous charges that the registrar shall disclose the identity of his informant if he finds the allegations made to be frivolous or vexatious.

Clause 61.—We have placed the proposed new section after section 144 of the Act. In sub-section (1) of the section we have named the Advocate-General or the Public Prosecutor as the legal advisers to be consulted on the question of instituting prosecutions.

75 New Clause.—The amendment made by sub-clauses (a) and (c) carry out the decision referred to at the end of the note on clause 67 (new 68). That in sub-clause (b) gives to accountants holding certificates issued under section 144 of the Act the right to use the designation "Chartered Accountant."

76 Clause 63.—We have inserted in section 145 a consequential amendment, the reference to profit and loss account, which was inadvertently omitted in the draft Bill. Other minor changes are intended to clarify the wording of the section, but we have also added a provision requiring the Auditor to explain the reasons for his opinion where he is unable to report that the accounts of the company are in thoroughly satisfactory order.

77 Clause 64.—The first change made introduces a consequential amendment overlooked in the draft Bill. The second limits the scope of the new proviso to sub-section (5) to public companies registered before the commencement of the Act.

78 Clause 65.—We have incorporated in section 153 the provisions of sub-sections (3) and (4) of section 153 of the English Act. We have added a new provision aimed at simplifying the determination of the meaning of "creditors of the same class" in view of the judicial uncertainty that has manifested itself on this point. We have also specifically provided for appeal from orders made under the section.

79 Clause 66.—In sub-section (3) of new section 153A we have extended the time allowed for delivery of a copy of an order made under the section to the registrar and have substituted the day of completion of the order for the day of the making of the order as that from which the time will run. We have slightly relaxed the stringency of the requirements of section 153B.

80 Clause 67.—A separate form has now been included in the Second Schedule for use when a private company is converted into a public company. The first change made by it merits a reference to this form. The second change is a small drafting correction in the interests of clarity.

81 Clause 67A.—We have amended section 159 in order to remove the difficulty created by the law as it stands, under which claims are frequently barred because the debt became payable at the time of call, which may have been more than three years before the winding up commenced. We think it should be provided that where calls have been made before the date of the winding up the cause of action against a defaulter should be regarded as arising at the commencement of the winding up: no calls made after the commencement of the winding up the cause of action may properly arise from the date of the call.

82 Clause 67B.—We have inserted in section 160 of the Act a provision aimed at securing that a surviving coparcener of a Hindu joint family under Mitakshara law cannot escape liability under this section by asserting that he is neither an heir nor a legal representative.

83 Clause 68.—We have substituted registered post for ordinary post as the method of service of a demand under section 163, and have added some clarifying words to the proviso dealing with the making of a demand on behalf of a firm.

84 Clause 69.—We consider that the Local Government should not sanction the presentation of a petition by the registrar for winding up a company without first hearing what the company has to urge to the contrary. We have provided for this by a slight re-arrangement of the amendment proposed to section 166, and by the addition of a proviso.

Clause 73.—We think the duty of filing with the registrar a copy of the winding up order should be on both the company and the petitioner. 88

Clause 74.—We have added a provision requiring notice to be normally given to the company before the court appoints a liquidator. 89

Clause 76, section 177A.—We have restored in sub-section (1) some necessary words found in the English Act, which appear to have been omitted inadvertently. We have slightly extended the time given for submission of the statement referred to in sub-section (3). Similarly we have reduced the time given to the liquidator under sub-section (1) of section 277D for submission of his preliminary report. 91

Clause 82, section 207.—The first change is a drafting correction. We have extended the period of time referred to in sub-section (1) from one year to three years. We have also provided that the directors' declaration of solvency must be supported by a report by the auditors of the company. 97

Section 209B.—We have provided that the liquidators' remuneration when left unfixed by the committee of inspection and the creditors shall be fixed by the court.

Section 209H.—The oversight in the Bill in failing to fix a quorum for a creditors' meeting has been rectified.

Section 217.—We have inserted a specific saving of the rights of secured creditors, thereby merely expressing the law as at present interpreted.

Clause 88.—We have inserted amongst the items receiving priority in a winding up sums due to an employee from a provident fund. This supplements the provision made by section 262H (2)—which we have now amended—in the interests of provident fund subscribers. 98

Clause 91, section 230A, sub-section (6).—The words omitted were copied from the English Act but are inapt in reference to Indian conditions. 99

Clause 97.—We have provided that before a prosecution is launched against a suspected person he shall be given an opportunity for explanation. The other changes made are consequential reproductions of changes determined on in previous clauses. 100

Clause 33, section 238A.—The first change is due to the new definition of manager which no longer includes managing agent. We have corrected an inaccuracy in the proviso to sub-section (1). The omission of sub-section (3) is in consonance with our omission of sub-section (6) of section 37 in clause 34. 103

Clause 99, section 241A.—We consider that the liquidator may be authorized to pay moneys received by him into Scheduled Banks. The powers given by the proviso to sub-section (1) and by sub-section (2) to the registrar and the Local Government can in our opinion be better exercised by the Court. We have recast sub-section (3) so as to apply to all windings up, and have expressed the liquidator's duty in a positive rather than a negative form. 105

Clause 91.—We have enlarged the powers of the High Court to make rules. It is essential that their powers in this direction should be extended, in view of the various new forms of procedure introduced by the amendments made by the Bill. 106

Clause 95.—In view of the difficulty which, it is represented, would be experienced by certain companies incorporated abroad if they were required to prepare and file balance-sheets in the form required from companies incorporated in British India when the balance-sheet prescribed by the law under which they are incorporated 108 in of a widely divergent nature, we have considered it sufficient to secure that they shall file with the registrar a copy of their own proper balance-sheet, but shall supplement it if necessary by further documents giving the information which is deemed essential and which has now been tabulated in a new Form inserted as Form H in the Third schedule of the Act. Where any such company is not required by the law of the country in which it is incorporated to file a balance-sheet, the company must comply with the requirements of the British Indian Law in this respect.

We consider that the provisions of the New Zealand Companies Act of 1933 requiring these companies to keep books of account in relation to the business done in the country where they are trading should be incorporated in the Act, and we have provided accordingly by an addition to proposed section 277D.

We have also incorporated the provisions of section 348 (1) of the English Act regarding full disclosure of the fact that the liability of the members of any such company is limited.

210 Clause 9.—We have made no change except three minor drafting corrections, and the change necessary to give effect to the decision recorded in our remarks on the last clause as to disclosure of the fact that the company is one of limited liability.

211 Clause 10.—We have adopted a new and much more detailed list of activities as forms of business in which a banking company may engage. We recognise that this list must be wide enough to escape the danger of hampering a company in the performance of any form of business usually undertaken by reputable bankers.

Section 277F.—We consider that this section should apply also to companies incorporated outside British India. We have postponed its operation for two years to afford companies time to make any necessary arrangements for compliance with the section.

Section 277G.—We consider that companies already incorporated should not be exempted from the provisions of this section and we have accordingly provided that it shall apply to all companies after the expiry of two years.

Section 277H.—The alterations are drafting improvements.

Section 277I (new 277J).—We consider it better to express the amount which is to be transferred to the reserve fund as a fixed proportion of the profits rather than as a percentage of the capital.

Section 277J (new 277K).—We have clarified the drafting, and have inserted a definition of the terms "demand liabilities" and "time liabilities". We have also reduced the penalty provided for the minor offence of failing to file the monthly statement regarding liabilities with the registrar.

Section 277K (new 277L).—We have made a minor drafting amendment.

Sections 277I and 277L have been introduced to give effect to our decisions that a banking company should not be allowed to create any charge upon unpaid capital, and that if a bank has subsidiary companies these companies themselves should not be anything but banking companies.

112 New clause.—This substitutes the provisions of section 372 of the English Act for existing section 281 of the Indian Act.

113 Clause 27, section 283A.—The first change is the consequential insertion of a reference to managing agent. We have substituted the word "wrongfully" for the rather vague word "improperly".

Section 283B.—The alterations made in sub-sections (1) and (5) are self-explanatory. We have omitted from sub-section (3) the provision by which the whole of any provident fund was constituted a trust. We are impressed by the considerations that in many large and stable funds the contributors would have to suffer considerable loss from the inevitable lowering of the interest yield, and that the withdrawal from the business of the sums represented by such funds and of prospective fluctuations as a part of the company's reserves might be fraught with difficulty. We have provided merely that all future contributions by employers themselves to any provident fund shall be separately invested, and that the securities in which they are invested shall be trust securities

Clause 24.—The substantial expansion of this clause is the result of making in the model regulations contained in Table A the changes necessary to bring them into accord with the Act as now amended. The clause as originally drafted was confined to amending those regulations which under the provisions of section 17 of the Act are compulsorily included in the articles of companies generally 114

Clause 29.—We have introduced a revised form of statement in lieu of prospectus for the purposes of section 154. 115

Clause 109.—We have made certain amendments in the proposals contained in this clause for alteration of Form F, Balance-sheet, prescribed in the Third Schedule. We have redrafted the clause so that it shall itself present the complete Form as now amended by us, instead of merely containing a list of the alterations that are to be inserted in the existing form. Such alterations as we have made in the proposals of the Bill have been actuated by the desire to improve the Form from an accountancy point of view. 116

Sub-clause (b) of the clause introduces into the Act the Form necessary to supplement the provisions of section 277 as now amended by clause 94 of the Bill

2. The Bill was published in the Gazette of India, dated the 28th March 1936.

3. We think that the Bill has not been so altered as to require re-publication, and we recommend that it be passed as now amended.

† Minute of dissent not received.

1 The compulsory inclusion of Art. 107 of Table A requires further consideration

2 Section 87B.—We think that a change in the firm where the managing agent is a firm or liquidation for reconstruction, where it is a limited company, should not necessarily in all cases amount to transfer or assignment

3 Accountants who are not Chartered Accountants should not be permitted to describe themselves as such for any purpose.

H. V. KRISHNAN

I have signed the Report subject to the following notes:—

(a) I think that in clause 38 of the Bill, a sub-clause should be added laying down the disqualifications for directorship in a public limited liability company, such as aliens or Non-British Subjects, ruling princes or those not amenable to the jurisdiction of Indian Courts, or retired Government servants who have held certain specified high offices in the State, prior to their retirement from public service as likely to exercise undue influence in obtaining business for the concern in which they may become directors or managing agents.

The reasons for the first two sets of the illustrations for disqualification for acting as directors or managing agents are obvious and as need not be stated

These are disqualifications over and above those obtaining under the ordinary law or under the Act or its amending Bill such as minority, unsoundness of mind, insolvency, conviction for fraud or breach of trust and the like.

Sub-clause 86 (i) under clause 33 of the Bill provides for the vacating of office by directors under certain contingencies, but does not make these contingencies or those mentioned above as positive disqualifications for acting ever as Directors.

(b) In clause 35, a sub-clause should be added defining clearly the Managing Agent

Neither in the definition section, nor anywhere else, in the main Act or in the Amending Bill is there any clear definition laid down of the Managing Agent In view of the great importance of the Managing Agent in the whole system of Joint Stock enterprise in India, and the law governing the same, it is, in my opinion, of the utmost necessity that such a vital term should be clearly defined. The definition should be so framed as to include all those who do the actual managing business of the company such as managing directors, secretaries and treasurers, general managers or any person or persons in responsible office and authority in the management of the company, no matter by what exact title they are described by the company.

(c) The clause of the Amending Bill relating to Banking Companies in India, viz., clause 96, is not enough by itself to make up for the great lack of special legislation to regulate companies doing banking business in this country. Just as from the purview of the main Bill, insurance companies have been excluded, on the distinct understanding that they will be provided for in a separate piece of legislation applied to them, so also would I suggest a special, separate comprehensive legislation to regulate and govern companies doing banking business in this country. The desirability of such special legislation has been emphasised in the report of the Banking Enquiry Committee, as also in the opinions submitted by public organisations representing commerce and industry in this country It would perhaps be impracticable if not out of order to move all the necessary amendments and additions to the Bill so as to make up for this special legislation, and therefore it is all the more necessary for some public undertaking being given by Government, such as that which has already been given with regard to the Insurance Companies to bring forward the necessary separate and comprehensive legislation for this purpose also.

Bombay,
26th August 1936.

1 There are a number of provisions in the Bill as amended by the Select Committee which we are unable to support and we therefore reserve the right to move or support such amendments in the Legislative Assembly as we may deem advisable

2 For the purpose of this minute we are content to deal only with a few clauses to which we attach particular importance. The clause numbers are as appearing in the original Bill –

3. Clause 7 (Regulation 107 of Table A) and Clause 56.—We consider that it is wrong to introduce rigid provisions for a profit and loss account for universal application to all classes of business A profit and loss account giving such details as are contemplated by Regulation 107 of Table A might in some cases be most damaging to the interests of shareholders as disclosing important business information to competitors. Furthermore, it is difficult to see how the Regulations can be suitable for every class of company, e.g., a manufacturing concern, merchant concern, mining concern, investment or banking concern and say a distributing company not formed for profit.

4 We are opposed to the compulsory inclusion of Regulation 107 in all Articles and we also consider that the shareholders should have the right of deciding whether it is in their interests to have the details specified in Clause 56 published.

5 The amendment of Clause 56 requiring inclusion in the profit and loss account of fees paid to directors from subsidiary companies is unworkable Payments made by subsidiary companies do not appear in the books of the holding company and can obviously find no place in the profit and loss account of the holding company.

6. Clause 51—We agree with the provision limiting the number of directors which a Managing Agent has the right to appoint, but the provision requiring the company in general meeting to appoint not less than one-third of the Board is one which we consider bound to lead to difficulties In many cases the right to appoint directors is given to the holder of a special class of shares or of a number of ordinary shares Similar rights are sometimes found in debenture issues and in companies where Government are interested Government invariably retain the right to representation on the Boards We consider it most undesirable to introduce legislation which may restrict these facilities, and there are cases such as Reliances under merger agreements where none of the directorate may be elected by the company in general meeting.

7 Moreover, the clause as framed does not save existing appointments or powers to appoint under existing contracts and no provision is made for filling casual vacancies

8 In our opinion that portion of the clause which prescribes that not less than one-third of the directors be appointed by the company in general meeting should be deleted.

9. Clause 35 Section 87A (2).—We are opposed to the compulsory termination of existing agreements after a fixed period

10. As the section is framed the Managing Agent automatically ceases to hold office at the expiration of 20 years from the commencement of the Act In the case of dissension among the shareholders, and perhaps the Board a Company may find itself with no proper form of management until a majority of the shareholders can make up their minds We consider that the section should provide that the Managing Agent may continue in office after the expiration of the 20 years unless and until removed by the shareholders, and preferably by a special resolution, since a decision of such importance to the company should not be left for determination by a bare majority.

11. The protection afforded a Managing Agent in the event of his having assumed a liability under a guarantee for the company is not adequate. The Managing Agent will still remain liable under his guarantee after he has ceased to hold office and the only protection afforded is that at the point of time when he is called upon to pay he will then obtain a charge, subject to existing charges, on such assets as the company may then possess, if any. In the meantime, the Managing Agent having severed his connexion with the company may have no means of ascertaining whether and to what extent the assets are being mortgaged and whether the assets are being dissipated.

12. In our opinion the Managing Agent should be discharged by the company from all contingent liabilities under guarantees before he is removed from office, as unless this is provided the obvious effect of the section will be to deter Managing Agents from becoming auditors for the companies or where they have already done so to induce them to procure an early discharge. In the result companies will be deprived of financial assistance which would otherwise have been available to them.

13. Section 87B (b).—We agree in principle that upon the transfer of a Managing Agency the consent of the shareholders should be obtained but the section as framed needs clarification as regards the meaning of the words "transfer of office".

14. Section 87H.—In our opinion the terms of this section are wide enough to apply although there may be no competition or likelihood of competition and apparently irrespective of the locality in which the business may be carried on. We consider that words should be added to the section to make it clear that the provision only applies where the business is of the same nature and is calculated to prejudice the business carried on by the company.

15 Clause 35B.—We are opposed to the provisions of the new sub-section (f) to section 91A of the Act. In our opinion the procedure contemplated would be impracticable in many cases and the right of inspection to any individual shareholder is likely to be prejudicial to the interests of the company since it affords a means for competitors obtaining information as regards details of the company's trading.

16. Clause 63A (b).—We are not in agreement with the provision that any accountant registered under the Indian Companies Act may style himself "Chartered Accountant (India)," when signing balance sheets. We consider that to change the present designation "registered accountant" in the way proposed is definitely misleading and not in the interests of the public or of the profession itself.

The 29th August 1936.

Clause 3. Section 4.—Proviso ought to be added to this section with a view to exclude Hindu joint family partnerships and firms from its operation as this section will cause unnecessary hardship to them.

Section 5.—In sub-section (1) after the word 'shall' the word 'only' should be inserted or a fresh sub-section (4) should be added providing that the memorandum should contain nothing that does not come under any of the heads mentioned in clauses (i) to (v), sub-section (1).

This is necessary to exclude extraneous matters being put in the memorandum which are not conducive to the interest of the company.

Clause 7.—Regulation 97 of Table A amended as follows should be included and made compulsory —

"No dividends shall be paid otherwise than out of profits and/or reserves."

The idea underlying this proposal is to stop payment of dividends out of capital.

Section 35.—An explanation ought to be added to this section that the term 'legal representative' includes heirs also in the case of Hindus, and that corresponding changes may be made in regulation 21 of Table A

This is to eliminate the unnecessary trouble and cost of taking out letters of administration in the case of the heirs of Hindus in the matter of transfers or disposals of shares.

Clause 30.—A uniform minimum of three directors should be prescribed for all public companies, whether registered before or after the commencement of the Indian Companies Act, 1936.

Clause 31.—The directors to be appointed by the members in general meeting should be not less than ¾ of the whole number of directors and should be appointed every three years by the system of proportional representation by means of single transferable vote. The existing custom of retirement by rotation of 1/3rd of the directors every year should be abolished as otherwise the number of directors at an election would be too small to ensure success of this system of election. Further, as the managing agents have already been given the right to elect 1/3rd of the number of directors, they should not vote in the election of the remainder of the directors unless they hold more than 1/3rd of the total value of paid up shares having voting rights.

Clause 33.—A new section after 86F should be added as follows :—

(i) No director of a company shall derive any pecuniary benefit directly or indirectly from dealings in the shares of the company if such dealings are proved to have been prompted by his special knowledge of the company derivable from his position as a director.

(ii) A director acting in contravention of this section shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees and shall also be civilly liable to pay the amount of benefit derived from such dealings to the person directly affected.

The object of the above proposal is to check dealings or speculation by directors in the shares of their company with a view to earn unduly gains, the total eradication of the evil may be impossible but the above provision will surely serve as an effective deterrent.

Clause 35 Section 87A (1) (i)—Proviso to section 87A stating, "the managing agent shall have the right to claim any compensation which may be payable by the company to the managing agent for premature determination of his contract of management", and the provisos to section 87B (c) and 87C (f) should be deleted as these will, to a great extent, nullify the purpose of these sections.

Section 87B (c) should be amended as follows :—

(c) "the appointment of a managing agent and the removal of a managing agent shall not be valid unless approved by the company by a resolution at a general meeting of the company, and any variation of a managing agent's contract of management shall not be valid unless approved by the company by a special resolution at a general meeting of the company."

This will remove the anomaly existing between section 87B (c) and the latter part of section 87C (f).

Another section 87I should be added after section 87H as follows :—

"Any contract or arrangement or stipulation in the memorandum or articles of association which interferes with the right of the Board of Directors to exercise powers of general control and direction over the managing agent in matters of general policy and broad questions of finance shall be void and not binding on the company."

It is not infrequent that the managing agents in their contracts with the company procure terms that render the control of the Directors virtually nil and this section is required to provide check against such practice.

Clause 106. Form F.—The letters "a.q." should be deleted under the headings "Stock in Trade" and "Investments" in Form F, so that the valuation of assets may be made only either at cost or at market price, preferably whichever is lower, and cut "at or under cost" or "at or under market value" or in any other way as is done at present by some companies because by these methods of assessment true valuation of assets is not shown. The following sections should be added at appropriate places:—

(1) "Provided that notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in the memorandum or articles of association or any agreement or arrangement, the voting rights of the different classes of shares (excluding preference shares) shall be strictly in proportion to the capital paid up respectively by each of such classes of shares."

This will check the undesirable practice of giving undue voting rights to holders of deferred and founders shares at the expense of ordinary shareholders.

(2) (a) "The amount of share capital proposed to be issued under the prospectus shall not be less than half of the authorised capital."

(2) (b) "If the issued capital of a company is not fully subscribed within one year from the date of its commencement of business, the company shall take proper steps for reduction of the authorised capital to such extent as may be found necessary to make the amount not more than double of the subscribed capital."

(2) (c) "If after the expiry of one year after the date of commencement of business, the company publishes any prospectus, notice or advertisement in which the authorised capital is given at an amount higher than that allowable under sub-section (1) of this section, the company and the managing agent, director or other officers of the company who knowingly permit such publication shall be liable to a fine not exceeding rupees one thousand each."

The unwary and the gullible are often taken in by the flourish of a huge authorised capital of a proposed company appearing in the prospectus or in newspaper advertisements and notices. The above provisions will provide a safeguard for such persons

BAIJNATH BAJORIA.

The 23rd August 1935

Although the Directors are the pivot of the Joint Stock Company system, there is no statutory provision regarding the precise position and powers of the Directors, either in the English Act or the Indian Act. But there is this fundamental difference between the English and the Indian systems that the English system is unicameral, there being only one controlling authority, viz., Directors whereas here in India we have a bicameral system, viz., the Directors and the Managing Agents. This thereby brings a lot of complications, especially in view of the fact that statutory recognition is for the first time being accorded to Managing Agents by this Amending Act. As a matter of fact, disputes not infrequently arises between Directors and Managing Agents regarding their respective powers.

Some of the provisions of this Bill make it all the more necessary that there should be a statutory provision defining the position of Directors vis-a-vis the Managing Agents, e.g., proposed new section 87G provides that Managing Agent shall have no right to issue debentures and shall not invest the fund of the company without consent of the Directors. The question very pertinently arises whether by necessary implication the Managing Agent will have power to perform all other functions without consent of Directors. Questions like these should not be left to individual judgment of courts. The new definition of the term Managing Agent introduced in clause 2 of the Bill seems to vest all residuary powers of management and control in the Directors. But it is desirable that there should be a substantive provision dealing with this very important point. To achieve this, Regulation 71 of the Table A of the First Schedule should be made compulsory. There cannot be any dispute that the ultimate and supreme power of control and direction of all companies including those managed by Managing Agents, should vest in the Directors.

The proviso to sections 87B (c) and 87C (1) should be deleted as they practically make the provisions of 87B (c) and 87C (1) illusory.

AKHIL CHANDRA DATTA.

The 30th August 1936.

General.—Generally I do not agree with the majority of my colleagues in exempting the existing companies from the provisions of the Bill. I see no reason why the difference should be made between the new and old. These exemptions practically nullify the Act. They put the new companies at a disadvantage and thus penalise new enterprise. The doctrine of the sanctity of contract should not be carried too far even in the interest of those who swear by it.

Clause 5 of the Bill.—I am unable to understand why the introductory words in the proposed sub-section (3) i.e., "Except with the previous consent in writing of the Governor General in Council", are necessary. Why should the advantages of these names be monopolised by those companies alone whom the Governor General in Council favours? Obviously this will lead to favouritism in business which is highly undesirable. In a capitalistic form of society Government patronage in business leads to invidious distinctions and the evil is aggravated under economic Imperialism, that is, when the Government happen to be an alien Government. There is the danger of discrimination between the Indian and the British and semi-British companies.

Clause 7 of the Bill.—I agree with the Bombay shareholders that Regulation 55 which imposes an obligation on the chairman to adjourn a meeting, if the majority of the meeting demands its adjournment, should be made compulsory. I am not prepared to believe that shareholders are so oblivious of their own interest that they will demand adjournments without valid reasons. And then it is not easy to have the majority against the management. The very fact of their being a majority goes to show that there seems to be something rotten in the state of Denmark.

And then there is the question of the proportional representation by single transferable vote in the election of directors. I think it is absolutely necessary to give the minority among the shareholders a chance. Looking to the powers and resources of the management in joint stock companies the methods adopted by them to secure safe majorities for themselves and the ways in which these majorities have been used the provision for the election of directors by single transferable vote becomes essential to give the shareholders some voice in the management. If proportional representation is necessary and justifiable anywhere it is undoubtedly so here. The nervousness of the vested interests as regards this provision is in itself an irrefutable argument in its favour.

Clause 13 of the Bill.—There is a very strong case in favour of the deletion of sub-section (3) of the clause. There can be no denying the fact that the absolute powers of the directors to refuse the transfer of shares (specially fully paid up shares) is liable to be abused and has been abused. And the absolute power of refusal to transfer shares is not so indispensable after all. As the Bombay shareholders have pointed out several companies modified their Articles of Association giving up the absolute power of the directors to refuse to transfer fully paid shares in order to obtain quotations on the Bombay Stock Exchange. London Stock Exchange also refuses to grant quotations to companies whose Articles of Associations give absolute power to the directors to refuse to transfer fully paid up shares. The Joint Select Committee which considered the Reserve Bank Bill recommended deletion from the Bill of a similar power sought to be conferred upon the Central Board of the Bank. In regard to a clause in the Imperial Bank Act Amendment Bill the Joint Select Committee said, "we do not agree that the Bank should have the power which the Bill in its original form would have given them to decline to register the transfer of fully paid up shares. This is not a right which we consider it desirable that they or any limited liability company should possess." Section 38 of the Canadian Companies Act, 1934, lays down that directors cannot refuse to transfer fully paid shares unless the transferor is indebted to the company. And the right to refuse the transfer of fully paid up shares without even assigning reasons for such refusal seems to me absolutely indefensible. In the absence of such reasons it is impossible to prove that the directors have exercised their powers capriciously and unjustifiably. Even the Registrar of Bengal has expressed his opinion that the directors should assign reasons for their refusal. The Karachi Indian Merchants Association are also of the same opinion.

Clause 15 of the Bill.—In sub-section (2) of this clause 30 days time for sending copy of the list of shareholders to a person who requires it is too much. Ten days time provided in the original Bill was more than sufficient. Shareholders want such copies specially at the time of General Meetings, etc. Hence there must be some margin of time between the receipt of the copy and the meeting. It is too much to expect the shareholders to be so alert that they will demand the copy months before the meeting and they do not know when the meeting is going to be held. No company worth the name should experience any difficulty in getting the copy ready within ten days. If in the case of some companies number of shareholders is extraordinarily large, they can employ extra labour. What one man can do in thirty days, surely, three can do in ten.

Clause 26 of the Bill.—In this clause provision should have been made laying down that every member of a company would be entitled to votes in proportion to the paid up capital held by him. This is necessary in order to checkmate those company promoters who insert in the Articles of Association all sorts of clauses designed to deprive the shareholders of their voting right as a class and to acquire disproportionate or multiple voting right for themselves with a view to secure sole majority. Generally preference shares are issued without any voting rights whatsoever. They are not entitled to vote even though their dividend has not been paid or their capital endangered due to the management of the company's affairs.

Then there is the evil of issuing management or deferred shares which must be checked. As a result of this practice the management acquires highly excessive or multiple voting rights, the underlying motive being to acquire and perpetuate the control of the undertaking in their own hands. The case of the New Victoria Mills Co., Ltd. (Cawnpore) under the management of Messrs. I. P. Shrivastava and Sons is a glaring instance of this sort of thing. As at 31st October 1934, in this Company there were 207,166 deferred shares of Re. 1 each on which only 8 as per share was called, and every holder of these shares was entitled to two votes per share. And these deferred shares were largely controlled by the management.

Clause 33 of the Bill.—I am unable to agree with the majority of my colleagues in the Committee in deleting sub-section 86F, originally provided in the Bill. It contained a salutary principle that one and the same person should not occupy the office of the Director and Debenture Trustee, as these offices are not compatible with each other.

There is no provision whatsoever about the election of directors. I think it is necessary to provide for the election of directors by ballot. Surely the shareholders who have financial stake in the company should have freedom of vote and the system of ballot is meant to give them that freedom.

The practice of one person becoming a director of unlimited number of companies should be regulated. No person should be allowed to be the director of more than twenty companies. The number may be arbitrary and there may be exceptional cases in which a person may serve more than twenty companies usefully but some limit has got to be fixed and exceptions should not be turned into rules.

It is also desirable to provide that the resignation of directors should be notified. No company should be allowed to trade on the confidence of the investing public in a person who himself has lost all confidence in the company concerned. The difficulties urged against the adoption of this provision are after all not so formidable as they are made out to be.

Clause 55 of the Bill.—This is the most important clause of the Bill as it deals with the system of Managing Agencies which has rightly incurred a considerable amount of public displeasure of late. The system has been so grossly abused that the confidence of the investing public in the joint stock companies has been greatly shaken. And thus the system has retarded the industrial advancement of the country which it claims to promote and which can be its sole justification. The case against this system has been thoroughly aired in various publications which are easily available to all who desire to have them. Therefore I need not go into it here. So far as to say that the system has not only been greatly abused but it has not even proved efficient in its working. Whatever its justification in the past I don't think there is any need to retain it now. In these days of surging tide of socialism, when even the capitalistic States are taking to the socialistic methods of production in many ways it ill behoves us to say that we can't do without the Managing Agency system for some time to come.

Clause 57 of the Bill.—I don't agree with the majority in changing 282B (2). I am of opinion that the sub-section should have been retained as it is in the original Indian Companies (Amendment) Bill, 1936. Law is meant to provide against bad companies, and no one can deny that even a very big company defaulted in this matter. The provident fund is a sort of saving and insurance fund and it should be regulated according to well-known investing principles. Everybody knows that greater the security the less the interest. Still people prefer to invest in sound and secure concerns, because in that case they may get less but they are sure to get it. I can't understand the concern of the big businesses for the higher payment to the employees. To be frank I view it with distrust. And then supposing that the employees will be losers inasmuch as they will get less interest; they will be compensated by the increase of their wage directly, because this thing is a sort of indirect wage to them. Besides this where it the guarantee that those concerns which pay higher interest will not reduce them in future. And suppose if by mischance the company comes to grief the thousands and thousands of the poor employees stand in danger of losing all of their hard-earned and expected income. The fact that up till now the defaults are few is no guarantee for the future. Taking all these factors in view, I think the wage-earners and the employees stand to lose more under the existing practice than under the new provision contained in 282B (2).

Clause 86 of the Bill.—This clause has been amended by the Select Committee. In the report of the Committee the clause is numbered 87. It lays down that the profit and loss account shall include particulars showing the total of the amount paid whether as fees, percentages or otherwise to the manager only in those cases where a special resolution passed by the members of the company so requires. Now, one can appreciate the difficulty in showing the manager's pay, etc., ordinarily but I fail to see why it should not be shown if the majority of the shareholders so require? There is no necessity for a special resolution. I think that these words should be substituted by the following:—

" where shareholders assembled in a general meeting so require "

Clause 88 of the Bill and 97 of the Report.—In spite of the opinion of the majority of the Committee to the contrary I hold that it is the duty of the law to ensure the appointment of independent persons as liquidators and with that end in view the following proviso should be added to 258A (1) of the existing Act:—

" Provided that the following persons, that is to say,—

(i) A Managing Agent of the Company or any partner of the Managing Agent of the Managing Agent is a firm or any

Director or Member of the Managing Agent if the Managing Agent is a private limited company or any Director of the Managing Agent if the Managing Agent is a public company;

(c) a Director, Auditor or Officer of the company;

(d) a partner of such Director, Auditor or Officer; and

(e) any person in the employment of such Managing Agent,

Director, Auditor or officer shall not be appointed Liquidator of the Company."

S. K. DUTTA PALIWAL.

1 Clause 42.—We regret that we are not able to reconcile ourselves to some of the important provisions in the Bill as it has emerged from the Select Committee. This being an Amending Bill, its scope is obviously limited and it is not open to us to deal with large questions of policy as regards industrial organisation in this country. We are, however, aware of the handicaps under which industrial enterprise labours under the present system of administration and would not like to do anything tending to hamper the growth of industries. We recognise that leadership is necessary for industrial planning and so long as the state refuses to take the initiative and to offer reasonable assistance and guidance in this matter after the manner of self-governing countries special measures may be needed to make up for this deficiency. We accept that industrial development has not yet reached the stage when we can safely dispense with the institution of managing agents.

2 There is, however, virtual unanimity on the point that this system of management is attended by a number of abuses and drawbacks and needs a complete overhauling. Capital is as essential for industrial progress as business enterprise and experience. Again, because of political and economic reasons, our industries have to face great difficulties in the way of finance. Private capital in a poor country has obvious limitations and a citizen of ordinary means would not readily take risks, and unless he is satisfied that it is profitable as well as safe to invest his savings in business, his reluctance and apathy will not be overcome. So long as the entrepreneurs are left free to appropriate the lion's share, the impetus needed for stimulating the man of small means will be feeble and ineffective. The profits of industry should be equitably distributed, and the Managing Agents' remuneration regulated in a fair manner so that the ordinary investor may earn a reasonable dividend on his share. Thus alone can fresh sources be tapped and larger sums drawn towards industry, and the alliance of capital and enterprise ensured for accelerating the pace of industrialisation.

3 Clause 42, section 87A.—The recommendations of Mr. Sunil Sen, who was specially engaged to examine this problem, have been greatly whittled down, as regards the term of tenure of the Managing Agents. As to existing Managing Agencies, he was of the opinion that the old contracts should come to an end after one year from the Amended Act coming into force notwithstanding anything contained in the articles. For future appointments he had laid down a maximum period of ten years. According to Mr. Sen "he had tried to bring his recommendations to the irreducible minimum." But the Bill (Clause 42) extends the period to twenty years indiscriminately. We may accept this limit of twenty in place of ten for the future, and are willing to give full benefit of this twenty years' period to the Managing Agents appointed before the introduction of this Bill. We agree that existing Agents should not be disturbed, until they have completed at least twenty years under their contract. But the substitution of twenty for one is utterly incomprehensible. In several cases, the existing Managing Agents, along with their predecessors in interest, have been in office for several decades. The emoluments earned by them have greatly exceeded the remuneration which the Managing Agents can hereafter possibly get under the restrictions imposed by this Amending Act. The industries that are well established can now thrive without the driving force of the Managing Agents, and on the whole it will work to the advantage of the community if they are relieved of these commitments and their energies are diverted to more fruitful channels so that the growth of new industries may be facilitated. It is not inconceivable that in several cases those on whom the mantle has fallen by the sheer accident of their being connected by blood or otherwise with the original initiators may be absolutely wanting in the qualities possessed by the pioneers. Succession to the office of Managing Agency is intrinsically unsound. In this age of keen competition over the entire international field, only such concerns can survive as are managed by the best brains in the most efficient manner. We appreciate the part played by resourceful captains of industry in the past and do not consider it necessary to observe if they have been amply repaid. It is however, pertinent to point out that none of the principal industries would have been in existence to-day but for the protection made by the community. But for heavy customs and import duties, the textile, the steel, the sugar or the cement industry would have been completely effaced long ago. Inexpert management and payment on a lavish scale to the superintendents unduly increase the cost of production and tend to raise the level of protective duties. The Bill is based on the sanctity of moral justice and public weal and does not regard any contract—much less an unconscionable arrangement—as sacrosanct. We may not insist on the existing Agencies terminating after a year, as proposed by Mr. Seo, or after two years in every case as the Bill lays down for Banking Companies, or till twenty years have elapsed from the date of the first appointment, but the extension of the period by twenty years from the commencement of the Act is utterly unacceptable to us. It is much too long. We are strongly of the opinion that Clause 42 section 87A (2) should be accordingly amended.

Suitable safeguards should be prescribed to prevent existing Agents devising subtle means for defeating the new provisions by enlarging the business of the company or starting new lines, or raising fresh capital.

4 Clause 42 87B (c) and 87C (1) and (2).—There has been further deterioration as regards remuneration as well as method of appointment of managing agents in the Select Committee as will be borne out by a comparison of 87B (c) and 87C (1) of the original Bill with corresponding provisions of the amended Bill. Under the former the appointment of the managing agents would not be valid except with the approval of the company [87 B (c)], and any stipulation for additional remuneration to any form other than that based on a fixed percentage of the net annual profit of the company needed the sanction of the shareholders. The amendments made in the Select Committee exempt the appointments made prior to the issue of the Prospectus from such sanction. We are opposed to these changes, as they render the provisions illusory and ineffective. As a rule the contracts of managing agency are entered prior to the issue of the Prospectus and the smallest issues out of such arrangements although it is invariably mentioned in the Prospectus itself. Individual shareholders seldom care to acquaint themselves with the details given in the Prospectus. Even under the existing law, matters pertaining to such contracts have to be disclosed in the Prospectus, though not in as detailed a manner as is now contemplated. In some countries no allotment of shares can be made until the applicant has signed the Prospectus. There is no such condition prescribed here. Even the original provision appeared to us as inadequate. No test or maximum has been laid down for determining the minimum sum to be paid in the absence of profits or the office allowance. The amended clause now provides for a minimum payment in the case even of no bequeathing of profits. The present clause is too vague and almost valueless. We are definitely of the opinion that the clauses as they are now framed are devoid of substance and will prove altogether futile. There is no alternative to the appointment of the Managing Agent along with the terms of his remuneration being in every case made subject to the unequivocal approval of the company. Such arrangements should not be binding unless sanctioned by the shareholders at a meeting specially held for this purpose, and no payment by way of remuneration to the Managing Agent should be admissible except out of the annual net profits.

5 871 (3).—87 A (4), as amended, contemplates the payment of compensation even where the termination of the agency is due to the agent's own default. In our view, it is fundamentally unsound. It should be distinctly laid down that no compensation shall be payable to the Managing Agent where his contract is terminated, as provided under sub-section (4) or any other provision of this Bill. Similarly, the Managing Agent should not be entitled to any compensation if the company is wound up, whether by Court or voluntarily. The failure of the company must be due to some misfortune if it is not the result of the incompetence, default or incompetence of the Managing Agents. There may have been a trade depression or causes beyond the Managing Agents control such as, an economic collapse or slump, but there is no reason why the Managing Agent should possess better rights than the shareholders, and as this change implies, at their cost. It is still more strange that under this sub-section the Managing Agent will have a right to compensation even though the disaster be the result of his own incompetence and inefficiency.

6 871 (a).—Mr. Seth had recommended that the Managing Agents should be removable by the shareholders on the grounds of fraud, gross negligence, breach of trust or breach of duty, notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in the articles or in the terms of appointment by a resolution passed at an extraordinary general meeting to be convened for the purpose.

The draft Bill modified this considerably and restricted the right of removal to fraud or breach of trust proved in a competent court [87 (bb)]. This has been further interfered with, with the result that Managing Agents will not be liable to be removed except for a non-declarable offence relating to the affairs of the company. We see no reason why a person guilty of fraud or breach of trust, whether arising out of the affairs of the company or otherwise, should not be removable from the office of Managing Agent, if he forfeits the confidence of the shareholders. On the other hand, unless the offence of which the Managing Agent is convicted involves moral turpitude, even a conviction for a non-bailable offence need not prejudice his position. We also feel that a provision enabling the shareholders to remove the Managing Agents for gross negligence of duty or mismanagement should be inserted. Presumably the shareholders have such right in minimum law, but, as there seems to be some doubt in certain quarters, it should be clearly stated. Where a person is demonstrably unfit to discharge the responsibility or is fatal the purpose for which he is appointed he should be disqualified.

7 871.—There is a general demand that the Managing Agents should not be allowed to enter into contracts with the company for the supply of raw material or stores or for the sale of manufactured goods. It has further been suggested that the right of Managing Agents to receive directly or indirectly any profit, commission, allowance payment compensation or other remuneration for subsidiary works done or services rendered to the company should be prohibited. The Bill is silent on this point. As defined in the Bill, the Managing Agents will be in charge of the management of the whole of the affairs of the company. It is against all canons of business morality and public policy that such persons should deal with company on their own account. Such practice should be strictly prohibited and the Managing Agents should not be allowed to carry on any transaction with the company for their own personal benefit, and they should not get anything in addition to the remuneration fixed under the contract for the services rendered by them. We will be prepared to consider if any modification of this principle is necessary in the case of existing contracts.

8. 876.—Except in the matter of issuing debentures and making investments the Managing Agent's authority has not been restricted. We think that the Managing Agent should not have power to borrow money except for day to day working of the company by way of short loans only and he should not incur any loan or capital expenditure for enlarging the undertaking of the company without the express and specific sanction of the Directors. It should not be within his purview to issue calls or refuse transfers or to deal with forfeited shares.

9. 57.—In our opinion not less than two-thirds of the whole number of the Directors of the company should be elected by the shareholders and the election should be held according to the principle of proportional representation or single non-transferable vote. It is inequitable to allow a bare majority to pack the entire Board with its own nominees. Cases are not unusual when one single shareholder or Managing Agent holds the majority of shares and as such nominates all the Directors and dominates the entire Board. All shareholders should be given an equal opportunity to return representatives trusted by them. The shareholders are in law and in fact the real owners of the concern and they should be encouraged to take an intelligent interest in the affairs of the company. Election by proportional representation should conduce to greater efficiency in management and keener interest on the part of the shareholders.

10. Clause 49, sub.—The scope of this sub-section is very limited. The Directors hold a fiduciary position and occasions involving conflict of duty and interest should be avoided. A Director should be prohibited from entering into any transaction with the company unless he has received such consent in a general meeting. Such permission should not be available for more than a year at a time. It should clearly specify the nature of the transaction and a report should be laid before the company at its general meeting giving full information as to the contracts entered into by the Directors. The Directors should be required to lay before the annual meeting of the company a statement of the shares of the company acquired by them in their own or other people's names along with transfers made by them in the course of the year with the corresponding quotation in each case.

11. 59.—The debts due by a Director should not be written off without the consent of the shareholders. The Directors should not have the power of promoting any subsidiaries, issuing unissued capital or transferring any undertaking of the company without the consent of the general body of shareholders.

12. 103.—We regret the change made by the Select Committee in clause 94. This provision had been bodily taken from the English Act. The Bill closely follows the English Act of 1929 and a departure in this particular case is, in our view, unjustified. We fail to understand why foreign companies should be given exceptional treatment. We fear that such discrimination will work to the detriment of the indigenous companies and may even serve as subterfuge for defeating the purpose of the safeguards provided in the Bill. There is some object and some reason as to why the Balance Sheet should contain certain particulars. We do not find any reason as to why the foreign countries engaged in exploitation here should not comply with the general rule in force in our country. Surely when foreign companies can submit without any difficulty to the rule prescribing uniform practice for all in the United Kingdom and other countries they can do likewise here. We are not asking them to do more than what our own indigenous corporations are required to do in other countries. Just as a company incorporated in Tokyo New York or Dublin has to present a Balance Sheet in England in the form prescribed for English companies, similarly we want such companies as have been registered outside India to file their Balance Sheet in the form in which companies incorporated here have to file theirs. We propose that the original clause be restored.

13. 110.—We feel that the provisions of clause 110 are not adequate. Hawking of foreign shares might well be prohibited and the Hawking section of the English Act introduced for this purpose. We quote the following extract from Mr. Son's report. "A considerable amount of business is being carried on in this country of late in shares, bonds, etc., of foreign companies. Glowing accounts are usually given by the canvassers and the agents employed by these companies of the profits likely to be made by investing money in such commodities.

The unwary investors not acquainted with the details of foreign corporations, are very often trapped and in most cases lose all the moneys which they invest in the purchase of these bonds and shares." The activities of one of these companies were recently investigated by the Bombay High Court and were characterised in the judgment as scandalous. The Governments of the United Provinces have also asked for legislative intervention. Besides, there is dearth of money in our own country and every rupee can well be utilised for advancing our own industries.

Clause 87.—We are not sure if it is absolutely necessary to prohibit any allotment being made until the whole of the share capital needed for the purposes mentioned in sub-section (2) has been subscribed for. The same object could well be achieved if this were made a condition to be fulfilled before starting business. Allotment need not be delayed, but no business should be commenced until and unless adequate provision has been made for Capital Expenditure and Working Capital.

We have restricted this note to salient points, as we do not consider it necessary to deal with minor matters at this stage.

SIMLA,
August 30, 1930.

I do not agree with several of the provisions of the Bill as it has emerged from the Select Committee. Since, however, I was not able to be present at the meeting of the Committee at which the Report was presented for final consideration, and have had no opportunity of studying the precise form in which the amendments which were decided upon in substance have been framed, I regret I am not in a position to append a Minute of Dissent which could satisfactorily embody my objections to the features of the Bill with which I find myself in disagreement. All that I can do, therefore, is to indicate only a few points of dissent.

Clause 31.—This clause should not have a retrospective effect, and the powers of directors to fill casual vacancies should not be done away with.

Clause 35 Section 87A (2).—It should be provided that existing Managing Agency contracts should not be automatically terminated at the end of twenty years except by a Special Resolution of the Company. In any event the office of a Managing Agent should not be terminated before the Managing Agent has been indemnified for all liabilities or obligations properly incurred by him or behalf of the company.

Section 87B (b).—The words "transfer of his office by a Managing Agent" should be strictly interpreted. It would be very inconvenient and unclear idea that every single change in the personnel of a managing agency firm should require the approval of the company in general meeting.

Section 87C (2).—I do not see why bounties or subsidies should be deducted for the purpose of calculating net profits.

I am altogether opposed to the new provision that a Registered Accountant may be allowed to style himself, for the purposes of the Act, as "Chartered Accountant (India)". It is calculated to deceive the public, and no valid reason has been advanced for such a change of designation.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 31st August, 1936 :—

L.A. BILL No. 32 OF 1936.

A Bill further to amend the General Clauses Act, 1897, for a certain purpose.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the General Clauses Act, 1897, for the purpose hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. This Act may be called the General Clauses (Amendment) Act, 1936. Short title.

2. After section 6 of the General Clauses Act, 1897, the following section shall be inserted, namely :— Insertion of new section 6A in Act X of 1897.

"6A. Where any Act of the Governor-General in Council or Regulation made after the commencement of the Act repeals any enactment by which the text of any Act of the Governor-General in Council or Regulation was amended by the express omission, insertion or substitution of any matter, then, unless a different intention appears, the repeal shall not affect the continuance of any such amendment made by the enactment so repealed and in operation at the time of such repeal." Repeal of Act making textual amendment in Act or Regulation.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Doubt has sometimes been entertained in the past as to the effect of the repeal of an amending Act which has made textual alterations in a previous Act. The view which the Government of India favours is that an amending Act of this nature is spent once it has secured the incision in the text of the parent Act of the changes it was intended to bring about, and that the repeal of the amending Act thereafter does not affect the continuance of the amendments made by it. It has not, however, hitherto been the practice to repeal such Acts after their work is accomplished and the Statute-book is encumbered with much matter which could profitably be removed but which it was undesirable to remove as long as any doubt concerning the effect of such removal could be entertained. The present amendment of the General Clauses Act, 1897, is aimed at establishing beyond doubt the view set forth above, and enabling a large number of Acts which were confined to making textual amendments in previous Acts to be repealed.

(4) The powers, functions and procedure of conciliation officers shall be such as may be prescribed by rules made under section 19."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Trade Disputes Act was passed in 1929, originally for a period of five years, and was converted into a permanent measure in 1934. It was reviewed by the Royal Commission on Labour and was criticized in certain minor respects by two Courts of Inquiries appointed under it. The proposals contained in the Bill represent the changes which, in the light of experience gained of its working and the opinions expressed upon it, appear to be desirable. The changes of substance are discussed in the Notes on Clauses.

SIMLA,
The 20th August 1936. F. NOYCE.

NOTES ON CLAUSES.

Clause 2, sub-clause (a).—In certain areas inland steamer services are indispensable means of communication, while power plants are essentially public utility services.

Sub-clause (b).—At present "trade dispute" includes disputes between employers and workmen or between workmen and workmen. But the main provisions relating to conciliation are limited to the former class of dispute and nothing in the Act applies to disputes between employers and employers. Serious stoppages of work occur sometimes as a result of differences between workmen and workmen and it may be useful to enable the machinery of the Act to be used in the case of disputes between employers and employers which threaten to interfere with trade and employment.

Sub-clause (c).—With the present definition, it is arguable that discharged strikers have ceased to be workmen, and that in consequence the main provisions of the Act cease to be applicable to disputes with men so discharged. The amendment is designed to make it clear that such men are, despite their discharge, workmen for the purpose of the Act.

Clause 3.—The amendments are consequential on the amendment in clause 2 (b); the alteration in wording in the second amendment includes the case where there is more than one employer.

Clauses 4, 5 and 6.—The Railway Court of Inquiry of 1931-32 considered that the Act rendered the presence of the Chairman necessary at every sitting and recommended amendment. These amendments make it clear that the Chairman need not be present at every sitting.

Clause 7.—The amendment to sub-section (2) of section 15 is designed to make it clear that it is not necessary, to constitute an offence under the clause, for an employer to lock-out all his workmen without due notice; a partial lock-out should also be punishable.

The new sub-clause (2A) is intended to assist the Local Government to decide promptly whether their intervention under section 3 of the Act is necessary by ensuring that the threat of a stoppage is brought to their notice.

Clauses 8, 9 and 10.—The present section 16 is framed in terms which, as experience has indicated, render it of little value for the protection of the community. It is important that any measures which are necessary to protect the public against the serious injury that may be involved in a big dispute should be taken. But it has also to be recognized that those taking direct part in a dispute of the character may have genuine grievances, and it is proposed to ensure that when a strike or lock-out is declared illegal, steps will be taken to have the claims of the parties investigated. The proposed section 16 accordingly provides that any declaration of a lock-out or strike as illegal must be accompanied by the reference of the dispute to a Court of Inquiry or Board of Conciliation, and the period for which the declaration of illegality submits is limited to two months. The changes in sections 17 and 18 are consequential.

Clause 17.—As the Royal Commission on Labour observed "the heavy artillery of the Trade Disputes Act" as it now stands is not suitable for use in the earlier stages of a dispute, but it is at these stages that conciliation can be most useful. The new section is designed to facilitate the appointment and the work of Conciliation officers who will not be responsible, as Courts of Inquiry and Boards of Conciliation are, merely for the investigation and settlement of disputes but will be charged with the duty of preventing disputes.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to recognise and remove doubts as to the validity of inter-marriages current among Arya Samajists was presented to the Legislative Assembly on the 1st September 1936:—

We, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to recognise and remove doubts as to the validity of inter-marriages current among Arya Samajists was referred, have considered the Bill and the paper noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us annexed thereto.

Paper No. I, on Mr. Rajah Singh's Arya Marriages Validation Bill, 1936.

We have revised the extent clause of the Bill so as to accord with the formula generally used. At the same time we have extended the application of the Bill to those classes for whom it is possible to legislate outside British India. The retrospective effect which it was sought to secure by clause 1 (2) of the Bill as introduced has been secured in the redraft of clause 3 of the Bill as introduced, now appearing as clause 2.

We have omitted the definition of Arya Samajist. We were impressed by the difficulty of finding a satisfactory definition and we considered that the proposal in sub-clause (b) of clause 2 that a declaration subsequent to marriage should suffice to establish that the parties of the declaration was an Arya Samajist, was fraught with danger. We are of opinion that the purposes of the Bill will be adequately served if the question of the religious status of the parties to a marriage remains a question of fact to be determined by the circumstances of each case.

We have recast clause 3 (now numbered clause 2) in a clearer and more comprehensive form.

We recognize that some provision must be made to govern succession in respect of the marriages dealt with by the Bill, but we found that considerable diversity of opinion existed as to what that provision should be. We decided by a majority that the most suitable solution of the problem is to provide as we have done in clause 3 that questions of succession shall be determined according to the Indian Succession Act, 1925.

2. The Bill was published in the Gazette of India, dated the 28th September 1935.

3. We think that the Bill has not been so altered as to require republication, and we recommend that it be passed as now amended.

MINUTES OF DISSENT.

The Bill is intended to meet the needs of the Arya Samajists. Clause 4, relating to succession, should therefore be so framed as to meet the sentiments of that community. It is known as a fact that the whole body of Arya Samajists are opposed to the Indian Succession Act being applied to them instead of the sacred Shastras which they believe in. The application of the Indian Succession Act to the property of the parties for whose benefit the Bill is intended denies to them, as Arya Samajists, what the Arya Samaj as a body has needed and been asking for all the time. If the Indian Succession Act were to apply in such cases, the present Bill would indeed not be needed at all, for the already existing Special Marriage Act, commonly known as the Civil Marriage Act, would cover all such cases.

It should not be forgotten that the Arya Samaj believes in the Vedas and the sacred Shastras and also in Varna Ashrama Dharma. Their difference with the orthodox Hindus is that they do not believe in Varna by Janma or birth alone, i.e., in the current caste system exclusively by birth. Instead they believe in Varna by Karma, i.e., vocation of occupation, as clearly expounded by Swami Dayanand the founder of the Arya Samaj. To ask them to take to the Succession Act, in cases where the Shastras can apply, is to ask them to forsake their faith.

We, therefore, would press that a provision to the following effect, which preserves the applicability of the Shastras in ordinary cases and also provides for the application of the Indian Succession Act in certain exceptional cases, be substituted in place of clause 4 as amended by the majority :—

> "For purposes of succession, the Hindu Personal Law of the husband where he was a Hindu before the marriage, and the Indian Succession Act in other cases shall govern the case."

An amendment to the above effect was moved by Dr. Bhagavan Das at the meeting of the Select Committee.

Dated the 4th August 1936.

I am not clear if it is good to omit the definition of Arya Samajist. The definition given in the Bill is good for all practical purposes, and may be allowed to remain.

As regards the changes in clause 4, I agree to the amendment of Dr Bhagavan Das only as a matter of compromise. I would, however, insist that clause 4 should remain as introduced, viz., as follows :—

> "4. For purposes of succession all inter-marriages referred to in section 3 of this Act shall be deemed to be marriages between persons of the same caste of (Dwijas) the twice-born Hindus."

This is in conformity with the feelings of the Arya Samajists for whom this Bill is meant. The Arya Samajists as a body support this provision.

L.A. BILL No. 30 OF 1935.

(As amended by the Select Committee.)

[Words underlined or sidelined indicate the amendments suggested by the Committee.]

A Bill to recognize and remove doubts as to the validity of inter-marriages current among Arya Samajists.

Whereas it is expedient to recognize and place beyond doubt the validity of inter-marriages of Arya Samajists; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Arya Marriage Validation Act, 193 . Short title and ext

(2) It extends to the whole of British India including British Baluchistan and the Santhal Parganas, and applies also to all subjects of His Majesty within other parts of India, and to all Indian subjects of His Majesty without and beyond British India.

Marriage between Arya Samajists and to be valid.

2. Notwithstanding any law, usage or custom to the contrary no marriage contracted whether before or after the commencement of this Act between two persons being at the time of the marriage Arya Samajists shall be invalid or shall be deemed ever to have been invalid merely on the ground that the parties at any time belonged to different castes or different sub-castes of Hindus or that either or both of the parties at any time belonged to a religion other than Hinduism.

Succession.

3. Succession to the property of the parties and of the issue of the parties to a marriage which but for the provisions of section 2 would have been invalid shall be regulated by the provisions of the Indian XXXIX of 1925. Succession Act, 1925."

Notwithstanding any subsequent change in the market value for these materials, the charge to the contractor will remain as originally entered in the written contract. No vantage or incidental charges will be borne by Government in connexion with this supply.

13. The attention of the tenderers is directed to the contract requirements as to the time of beginning work, the rate of progress, and the dates for the completion of the whole work and its several parts. The following rate of progress and the proportionate value of work done from time to time, as will be indicated by the Executive Engineer's certificates of the value of work done, will be required.
